Why renew with CFBN for 2019?

Renewing our membership for the Chicagoland Food & Beverage Network was an easy decision. Chicagoland is an exciting hub of food related activities and CFBN is the one organization in Chicagoland that’s successfully building a community for industry collaboration. So, it’s no surprise that CFBN has grown – in members, as well as in services and opportunities. There is value in the connection, and access points that it provides to all food and beverage industry professionals.

With the rapid pace of change within the food and beverage industry in Chicagoland and globally, it’s a critical time to be connecting and collaborating with other companies, with start-ups, and with something other than “the usual suspects.” These connections are critical for driving innovation in organizations large and small. As we start 2019, we’re excited to see what change and transformations will be unveiled as industry innovations and connections continue to evolve. And I know that CFBN will be leading the way.

The building of this hub, and what it provides to all of us in the food and beverage industry is a primary reason that we, here at Mars KIND International, have chosen to renew our membership. We wholeheartedly seek to support the continued growth and development of the Chicagoland Food & Beverage Network, and the development of an innovative food & beverage eco-system here in the region.

Connections, collaboration and mutual benefit – important concepts for us all as we look ahead at 2019. Join me in supporting CFBN, renewing your membership, or becoming a part of the expanding network in 2019.

Thank you, and Happy New Year,

David Jaggi,
Innovation Director,
MARS KIND International and CFBN Member

CFBN RECAP: January Innovation Breakfast

For our first event of the 2019 calendar, Chicagoland Food & Beverage Network partnered with Fifty Gazelles for the first Innovation Breakfast event of the year. Innovation Breakfasts are now headed into their 3rd year of offerings, under the guidance and content cultivation of Fifty Gazelles' Jeremy Anderson. One of CFBN's most popular series, Innovation Breakfasts examine “innovation” across all platforms and categories and offer attendees an insider’s look into the mindset, actions, and pursuits of companies who are innovating in product development, company culture, and more.

January’s event, held at the Fifty Gazelles/Blue Dog space in the West Loop, focused on three Chicagoland leaders who have been recognized for their “innovative” approach to company culture and team development. Katlin Smith of Simple Mills, Barb Pegesk of FONA International, and Michelle Hayward of Bluedog provided insight into why their companies have been recognized as some of the best in Chicagoland to work for, especially for women.

2019 Food & Agribusiness Safety Management Webinar | Recent Challenges in Food Recall

Presented by our member Cottingham & Butler

Jan 29, 11:00 AM - 12:00 PM

The produce industry is still reeling from the November announcement from the Federal Government to not eat romaine lettuce. In this webinar we will discuss why FDA took this action and what it means to both the produce industry and the food and beverage industry as a whole.

Are there lessons for others in the food industry from this action, and if so what are they? Is this just an issue with growers of produce or does it have lessons all the way up and down the supply chain?

"CFBN has been an amazing partner for Kraft Heinz Springboard! The team puts on incredibly valuable events that benefit companies both small and large. The network is designed to foster the food and beverage industry in Chicago, and the group lives up to this goal. Alan has formed a bright and capable team around him, and have recruited major industry influencers to the network. CFBN has taken the lead on a number of our events, that resulted in a knock-out first incubator cohort for Springboard. The connections run both wide and deep, and I cannot recommend CFBN more highly for anyone interested in bettering the Chicagoland Food and Beverage Community."

- Kelly Reinke, Kraft Heinz Springboard

Say Hello To Our New Members!
